| Bradley's family has always been involved with human affairs. Usually it has been in small ways that don't make huge waves. The subtle games of people and relationships were usually enough. Bradley wanted more and soon felt he had found it. The entire Earth, he realized, was one gigantic web of relationships and interpersonal struggles. But something is moving in the murky space behind everyone's consciousness. That is the greatest mystery of all. . . |       |     |             |

| Bradley appears as a reasonably charming all-american. He wears his black suit crisply and well and always makes sure to have a good compliment ready. Manifested he becomes a half-fox-half-human with bright orange fur and a nobility behind his dark, almond eyes. His four tails swirl lazily about as though adrift in an invisible ocean.                                                                                                                        |       |     |             |
