Background
Once upon a time a dragon was slain by a champion of a distant Pantheon. After the champion left, a flock of magpies observed the crows and insects picking over the kill. The magpies knew that the crows gained vision and knowledge from this and dared one another to swoop in and steal the crows' prize. Sandy was always the most precocious of the flock, thus the challenge was accepted. The stolen knowledge changed Sandy forever and set about a lifetime of glorious wandering.
Notes
In covert form Sandy is never without a smile. The universe has opened wide and in all those travels nowhere has been quite as endlessly fascinating as Earth. There never stops being things to learn and see and hear and steal. In manifest form, Sandy looks virtually no different from most small city birds.

You conjure an invisible hand of magical force anywhere nearby (20 yds). The invisible hand lasts until the end of your next turn or until you stop sustaining it. During your turn the hand can perform any simple action that you are capable of performing one-handed, including moving. If this action requires a roll, the hand uses your attributes and applicable modifiers. If the hand moves it does so at your speed but must remain near you (within 20 yds).				Until the End of Your Next Turn Your body shrinks from Small to Tiny. While you are Tiny: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Rolls that target your Physical Defense gain a Minor Advantage.</li><li>• Any Physical Impact you inflict is halved.</li><li>• You gain a specialty die on all rolls associated with the Agility attribute.</li></ul>
